METH BUST LANDS FIVE BEHIND BARS

Police say man 'grabbing crotch' during traffic stop leads them to hidden dope

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

A routine traffic stop for Lawrenceburg police led to five arrests and methamphetamine trafficking and manufacturing charges on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Officer Jeremy Cornish said he had been checking for traffic and seat belt violations at about 3:30 p.m. when he observed Robert Medley, 25, who Cornish knew had a suspended license, operating a motor vehicle without a seat belt on.

But Cornish noticed something else once he pulled Medley over by Plaza Drive and gained verbal consent to search his vehicle.

According to the city police report, Medley "kept grabbing his crotch area" while sitting on the trunk of the car.

"And I asked him what he had down his pants, then he produced the cigarette pack in his hand and a snort straw," Cornish said.

The cigarette pack contained three bags of methamphetamine, about two grams per bag, he said.

Mayor, council get automatic salary increase

Raise for employees uncertain

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

All six city council members and Mayor Edwinna Baker will receive an automatic salary raise due to an increase for this year's consumer price index rate.

City clerk Robbie Hume said that effective July 1 of this year, the city council and the mayor will get a salary increase of 2.96 percent, the current CPI rate, as mandated by city ordinance.

Baker

The CPI, or the rate at which the Kentucky Governor's Office for Local Government determines the cost of living, is set in late February each year.

In 2006, the city council voted to give itself annual salary increases equal to the increase set by the price index rate for year.

"The council and the mayor automatically get the CPI each year," Hume said.

According to Hume, each of the six council members is currently paid $372.23 per month, or $4,466.76 a year.

With the 2.96 percent increase, each council member will be compensated an additional $132.24 for the 2012-2013 year.

The mayor will receive roughly $14,150.64 a year with the 2.96 percent increase, Hume said.

Last year, both city council representatives and the mayor received a 1.5 percent

Daycare worker fired, charged for being drunk

Workers say York fell asleep while feeding children; owner says charges will be pressed

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

A Lawrenceburg daycare worker was arrested and charged with public intoxication after co-workers noticed her falling asleep while feeding children in the nursery.

York

According a report obtained from the Lawrenceburg Police Department, a Cradle to Crayons worker smelled alcohol coming from former employee Gina York of 101 Saffell St., who was described in the report as being unsteady on her feet, with glassy eyes and slurred speech.

Candace Anglin, co-business owner of Cradle to Crayons daycare on Glensboro Road, said York had passed everything, including her background check, and had come into work that morning perfectly fine.

She said York had been working at the child care facility since May 4, her first day of training.

"Her demeanor was fine," Anglin said. "I never would have hired her if I thought anything was going on."

Anglin said her assistant director said

High school student's art to hang in U.S. Capitol

Wallace draws inspiration from scene in congressman's home town

By Ben Carlson
News staff

It seems fitting that the artwork chosen to represent the Sixth Congressional District during the coming year will be a scene from its representative's home town.

Christina Wallace, a high school senior, said the inspiration for her work titled "Three Houses" came while driving through Versailles, the lifelong home of Congressman Ben Chandler.

"I was on the Versailles bypass and saw that someone started a neighborhood," Wallace said last Friday morning after Chandler announced that she had won the 2012 Congressional Art Competition. "When I drove by, I thought it was so cool because the three houses were there on a hill by themselves."

She said it's also "cool" that her work was selected from hundreds of submissions across Chandler's 16-county district, and will be on display for one year in the halls of the U.S. Capitol.

Wallace will fly to Washington, D.C., for a ceremony next month during which she will join the 434 other winners from across the country.

She thought that was pretty cool, too.

Following the ceremony, Wallace, an advanced placement art student, said she was surprised to find out she had won.

"I was in fifth [period] getting ready to take a test when [art teacher Karen Lacefield] called," she said. "I thought I'd probably place around 10th, but she told me I was the overall winner."

Wallace's work is a pen and ink drawing of the houses, which are backed by trees and shaded in several places with yellow pencil.

She said she drew it during one of her focuses on "vacancy."

"I didn't do a background," she said. "The windows reflect that, because they are empty."

Lacefield, who received a bouquet of roses from Wallace's mom, Tina, during the ceremony, said it's exciting to see one of her students win the award.

"It's such a pick-me-up for the kids," she said. "It adds importance to art, and art is very important."

Lacefield said she is also proud of two other students recognized during Friday's ceremony, during which Christa Watson was the Anderson County award for her work titled "Purple Cat," and Matthew Hartley won the Best Drawing award for his work titled "66 Fairlane."

Lacefield, who has taught art in Anderson County for 32 years including a stint at Western, said the only other local student to win the award was Carrie Armstrong back in the 1980s.

Michael and Tina Wallace are all smiles when their daughter, Christina, is congratulated by Congressman Ben Chandler last Friday morning at the high school.

During the ceremony, Chandler congratulated all of the students who submitted art, and said he's thrilled to have an Anderson County student win for the first time during his time in office.

"I hope you're all proud of this Anderson County achievement," he said. "I know I'm proud of you all and thank you for competing."

Wallace said she's proud of being selected, but thinks her future will be in photography.

"It takes less patience than art," she said, adding that she intends to attend Bluegrass Community and Technical College next fall in Lexington before enrolling at the University of Kentucky.

Created in 1982, the Congressional Art Competition is an annual competition where the artwork of high school students is judged at the congressional district level. In addition to an overall district winner, a winner is chosen from each county and in each of seven categories: painting, drawing, collage, print, mixed media, computer generated art, and photography. The art from the overall winner of the competition is displayed in the U.S. Capitol for one year.

Each spring, the Congressional Institute sponsors a nationwide high school visual art competition to recognize and encourage artistic talent in the nation and in each congressional district. The competition provides an opportunity for members of Congress to encourage and recognize the artistic talents of their young constituents.

Students submit entries to their representative's office, and panels of local artists in each district select the winning entries, which are then displayed for one year at the Capitol.

Winners are recognized both in their district and at an annual Awards Ceremony in Washington, DC. Since it began in 1982, more than 650,000 high school students have participated.

salary increase, according to the 2011 CPI rate.

The scale for employee salaries is set outside of the budgeting process, but the schedule is included in the city's overall budget, which is reviewed and voted on by the city council.

Hume

According to a March 2011 report by The Anderson News on the city's salary schedule, city employees are classified by various pay grades ranging from 11 to 50.

The lowest grade on the city's authorized position list is 17. Pay at those positions range from $20,069 to $32,111.

The highest pay grade currently employed is 33, and includes City Clerk Robbie Hume, Police Chief Tommy Burris and Public Works Director Larry Hazlett. Their salary range at grade 33 is $43,809 to $70,094.

A 2.96 percent salary increase, based on the current CPI, would raise salaries at the highest pay grade, starting at $45,106 to $72,169.

Hume said the consumer price index has been as low as 0.1 percent to 4.08 percent in 2007.

It remains to be seen, however, if city employees will also receive an increase according to this year's cost of living index rate as the finance committee prepares next fiscal year's budget.

The city council unanimously increased its employees' payroll by 1.5 percent in March 2011 for the 2011-2012 fiscal year, according to Anderson News reports.

Hume said the city's finance committee plans to meet later this week to finalize the 2012-2013 budget.

The first reading for the city's budget will be at the council's May 14 meeting. The second reading will be held on June 11.

Anglin said she fired York on the spot after Anglin called police to administer a alcohol breath test, which York failed.

York's blood alcohol level was at .038, and told city police that she took several medications around 11 a.m. that morning.

Anglin said she and her business partner plan to file child endangerment charges against York with the county attorney this week.

"Our kids' safety is very important to us," Anglin said. "We took proper precautions in this matter."

Rent pulling track to shut up critics

Good weather and large crowds mean last weekend's truck and tractor pull will result in a hefty donation for the county park.

Just how hefty that donation will be is unanswerable, and not because receipts from the gate and concessions are still being counted.

And that's a problem.

The Anderson County Fiscal Court needs to adopt a hard-and-fast policy on using the county park for events of any kind, including those designed to be fundraisers.

Despite many meetings, anonymous innuendo and downright falsehoods, the current policy leaves the fiscal court and truck pull promoter Eddie Carey wide open for those criticisms and worse.

This isn't a screed against Carey. We've said before and still maintain that Carey's idea to bring these pulls to Lawrenceburg is a great one if for no other reason than that they draw thousands of visitors and their wallets to our fair city.

One would think the nearly invisible city/county tourism authority — does that still even exist? — could do the same.

We've also said it's wonderful that Carey's stated intention from the time these pulls started was to donate net proceeds from them to the fiscal court in an effort to improve the park.

But therein lies the rub. The pope could make that claim and, without independent accounting of gate and concession receipts, there would be some who question if all the money is actually being donated.

Those criticisms, nearly all made anonymously via online message boards or by lunch-counter prophets not men enough to do so in public, will not stop as long as no system is in place to shut them up.

Carey has apparently lived up to his word. He has donated thousands in cash, and with his own labor installed what he says is over $13,000 in perimeter fence around the pulling tracks — which he also paid to have built.

Also, it's Carey who fronts upwards of $20,000 from his own pocket to promote the pulls — money he risks losing if the weather or crowds conspire against him.

For his efforts, Carey gets accused of all sorts of underhanded tactics, including lining his pockets and those of Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway, who Carey and his family financially supported during the 2010 election. Both strongly denied profiting from the pulls during last week's fiscal court meeting.

Those criticisms, nearly all made anonymously via online message boards or by lunch-counter prophets not men enough to do so in public, will not stop as long as no system is in place to shut them up.

The options, as we see them, are two. First, the fiscal court could hire workers to collect money at the gate and concessions.

Second and more appropriately, the fiscal court could manage the pulling track the same way it does other park assets: rent it.

Be it Carey's truck and tractor pulls or the frequent truck tugs and lawnmower pulls, the fiscal court could establish a fee to rent the track, as it does the pavilions or Stratton building.

What the group that rents it does with its net proceeds after that becomes its business, not the fiscal court's.

Of course that may be a tough sell to taxpayers, some of which almost certainly will reject the notion of public property being used for commercial gain, and rightfully so.

Nevertheless, there is little doubt that until the fiscal court concocts a way to eliminate at least most of the skepticism, the rumors, lies and innuendo will continue, and give an otherwise tremendous event repeated black eyes.

Fix these problems, too

We've had several calls and comments from readers who were none too happy with the tractor and truck pulls, particularly because of the late-night noise and litter.

Screaming engines at 10 p.m. on a Friday night are one thing, but when they're howling after midnight, it's understandable that some folks are going to object.

We checked, and the city's 911 dispatch center said it received three calls Friday night, but none Saturday when the pulls ended much earlier.

For future pulls, the fiscal court would be wise to request that they be finished by 11 p.m., or so.

As for litter, we heard from some very unhappy folks who complained about beer cans and other trash strewn about the park.

One person was particularly bothered that debris had to be removed from the walking track Saturday morning for Relay for Life's 5K race, and that the youth soccer field near the track was "littered with beer cans and cigarette butts" Sunday morning.

Beer cans were spotted throughout the park, including in the middle school parking lot.

Big crowds typically create messes, but additional trash cans in parking areas would be a good way to start.

As for the beer cans, it's not surprising that folks hanging out for several hours of truck and tractor pulling might want an adult beverage. And given that there are no signs forbidding them to bring alcohol into the park, expecting visitors from other communities to know that regulation just doesn't make sense.

Perhaps the best solution is to enlist a vendor, get a weekend permit and have beer sales inside the event. That way consumption would be monitored and hopefully contained.

It's unreasonable to think that event organizers can or should monitor parking areas outside of their gates, and even more unreasonable to expect city police officers or deputies to patrol the areas outside of the event in hopes of catching someone drinking a beer.

It wouldn't be the first time beer has been served on government property. The city council allowed beer sales a couple of summers ago during its concerts on the Green, and by our count everyone lived through that.

So some suds at a tractor and truck pull shouldn't draw too many objections, either, as long as it's done inside the track.

The bottom line is that these truck and tractor pulls are an overall plus to Anderson County. They bring in revenue for the park as well as local businesses during a time when revenues are slight.

Rather than attacking them, the fiscal court would do well to address the problems as they arise and encourage these types of activities.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Truck pulls benefit community

To the editor:

In response to the article in last week's paper regarding the truck pull event sponsored by Eddie Carey, as a Lawrenceburg resident and a participant of the truck pull, we voice our support for the event.

We'd be disappointed to see Lawrenceburg lose this event to a surrounding county. Folks are losing sight of what this event does for the community.

These events draw participants and their families from around the state. What does that do for our community? They eat in our local restaurants, purchase fuel at our gas stations, stay in our hotel and visit our stores.

The article stated, "[Magistrate David] Montgomery, who chairs the fiscal court's events committee, said Carey gave $4,300 to the county following one year's pull, another $3,000 from another pull and constructed $13,000 in fencing." That's extra revenue the community would miss out on should the event be moved.

We also think the truck pull provides an entertainment source for the youth of our community, providing them with something to do in town rather than traveling to Frankfort or Lexington. If you've ever been to one of the pulls, you'd see how many young people turn out to support the event.

Mr. Carey does a wonderful job organizing and promoting this event for Lawrenceburg. It's nice to have a pulling event in our hometown that we can be proud of and that helps our local merchants. We hope our local government and community will support the event.

CASA thanks volunteers

To the editor:

CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates) organized a Stop Child Abuse fund raising event April 7 by having

CASA volunteers, and some other very special volunteers, collect money at various intersections in the city.

After being specially trained and sworn in, CASA volunteers advocate for abused and neglected children by collecting and reviewing confidential information from a number of sources and bringing this information to the Family Court Judge in a written report. This carefully researched information focuses on the child's best interest which is ensuring that the child is in a safe-permanent home.

CASA is proud to be a voice for these children who are in the court system through no fault of their own.

Because CASA receives no money from federal or state government, it operates mostly on money received from grants, donations and fundraisers.

CASA would like to thank the following community volunteers for coming out early on a cold and windy Saturday morning to raise money and awareness for CASA: Natalie Nichols, Austin Taylor, TJ Taylor, Mike Fitzpatrick and some of his Band of Brothers — Seth Carmichael, Chris Fitzpatrick, Mackenzie Morris, Ethan Kelly, Matt Sprague and Spencer Ruggles.

Leaders should follow the rules, too

To the editor:

When some business tenants of mine were forced to obtain a conditional use permit, they pointed out that one of our county officials, Jason Denny, doesn't have one for his own home-based business.

Denny, our county clerk and a former magistrate, has operated his lawn care business for years from his home. It seems to me that it would be virtually impossible for him not to know he needed a permit to operate a business from his home.

When someone takes on the role of elective office they are held to a higher standard, and this kind of smacks of how locally and nationally, our leaders apply the laws, but don't have to follow them.

From insider trading in Congress to right here in Lawrenceburg, why can't our leaders be the example instead of the burden?

Jess Thompson
Lawrenceburg

Editor's note: According to a legal notice in this week's paper, Denny has requested a conditional use permit through the Board of Zoning Adjustments.

Since Earth Day, I've acquired six new trees, and they're all babies. You knew I was a tree hugger, right?

They'll go into the ground just as soon as I decide where they'll be happy. I will also put a little mulch and wire around them, to ensure that I don't drive over them with the mower.

Placement of trees is important to a landscape. They don't just add to the value of your home, they add to the value of your life.

We all like to live, right? A healthy environment adds value to your life in several ways. The sight of a beautiful tree puts a smile on your face and a song in your heart. It also helps to shade your house, reducing your electric bill and keeping a little green in your pocket at the same time.

Trees provide food, sometimes for you and sometimes for the other wildlife calling this planet home.

Trees are the lungs of the planet. They take in the carbon dioxide we release through our bodies and machines, and turn out oxygen, via photosynthesis.

A mature tree can take in 48 pounds of carbon dioxide annually.

My six new trees will eventually take 288 pounds out of the atmosphere each year. My truck and I will average 10,000 miles of driving this year, contributing 10,500 pounds of carbon dioxide to the atmosphere. That means I need about 219 trees to clean up after me.

Fortunately, I have 17 acres and most of them are covered in mature trees. I can offset my carbon footprint for both my car and my house and a neighbor or two. Even if you live in town, you can help improve your air by planting a tree.

Besides removing carbon dioxide from the atmosphere and generating oxygen, trees also reduce air pollution, recycle water and control soil erosion. My new trees will also provide me with food (two are walnuts), spring color (two redbuds and one magnolia) and fall color (one yellow poplar), as soon as I decide where to plant them.

Trees grow healthy when given what they need, good soil, appropriate water and correct light. Knowing how big they will get also helps. I don't want something that could take out the roof of the house, if it comes crashing down during a storm. I do want to be able to enjoy admiring it's colors, nuts and flowers throughout the year.

I don't want it to be a pain to mow around. I actually hope to plant them where it already is a pain to mow. I have a couple of spots in mind.

The walnuts have to be in a special place. They emit hydrojuglone into the soil, eliminating any other competitors that might try to grow around them. The dropping nuts need to be out of the way, but easy to gather.

Now, maybe you can understand why I still have trees in the kitchen. Eventually, they will all find a happy home here on the farm. They'll provide more value to my life and the planet's. I'll also get a free work out and a tan while putting them in the ground.

I've heard that people actually pay for those two things. I'll give you several free sessions, if you'd like. I'll even throw in a live action animal exposition.

Spanky and Tiller can be very entertaining.

Now get outside and make the world a better place. In the end, you might just find smile on your face.

Happy growing.

Looking for life in weekly obituaries

Meaghan Downs
Staff columnist

I love reading obituaries.

Not because I am happy to learn that someone died.

But because it's an entire epic novel squeezed into miniature, tracing life from birth to death.

It's Homer's Odyssey compressed down to the time it takes to read a haiku.

Is this morbid fascination? I don't think so.

For one instant, in a few, compact lines, we learn that someone's ordinary life wasn't so ordinary.

Read between the lines.

We have more in common with the dead than you'd think.

You'll find a lifetime of work, family and living.

Not death. Not mourning.

Edgar Lee Masters' "Spoon River Anthology," used the fictional voices of the dead to bring a small town's history to life on the page.

As a high school freshman, I was forced to read this collection of short stories by my English teacher.

And I'm glad I did.

Through a series of short poem obituaries, the reader learns about ordinary people: farmers, mothers, children and grandmothers.

How they wished they lived their lives.

What they'd like to say to those they left behind.

How unusual and fragile and beautiful the act of living can be.

If I possessed multiple life spans — and hundreds of reporters' notebooks — I'd devote myself to the singular purpose of recording the extraordinary stories of ordinary people, just to get it all down before it was lost.

I suppose this brief column will have to suffice.

For the next couple weeks, I'll be focusing on those seemingly ordinary roles that can define us, that sometimes tear us apart or bring us together as people.

Parenthood.

Work.

Religion.

As residents of Anderson County, we're a community that feeds into other parts of the commonwealth while trying to sustain its own sense of history and place.

It's often easy to forget, however, that we are a community.

The heart of downtown has been lost to time and a difficult economy.

Fewer people are buying homes, and fewer are able to sell.

We go about our business, keeping our heads down in order to survive to fight another day.

But in the process of ignoring each other, we can take the time to stop. Recognize what we have in common.

Before all we know of others' lives is what we read in obituaries, interesting though they may be.

When food is sugar free, look more closely

Joan Martin
Guest columnist

Last week I met with the group at the Senior Center to discuss carbohydrate counting, diabetes management and sugar free foods.

The big question was if sugar free foods are really good for you.

The true definition of a sugar free food is that it has less than .5g of sugars. Some manufacturers are not complying with the FDA regulations that any sugar free food that is not low or reduced in calories should disclose that fact.

Americans generally believe that sugar free means that it's low calorie. This is frequently not the case. Statements such as not low or reduced calorie or not for weight control should also be on the label if it states it is sugar free and actually is not low calorie, etc.

Read the label on sugar free cookies. You'll be surprised to see that they aren't low in calories and frequently have more fat than regular cookies.

Not only that, they are usually not as tasty and are more expensive.

I'm not recommending that you eat cookies as a healthy choice. But sugar free foods are not always the best choice. Some people tend to eat more of a food if its labeled sugar free because they think it's good for them. This is not true.

Diabetes management is not about eliminating the sugar you eat. You need to manage all the carbohydrates you eat, not just sugar. So eating bread or rolls is just as bad for you in some ways as eating a candy bar. The candy may have more calories, but not necessarily.

Carb counting is a way of keeping track of the amount of carbohydrates you get from the foods you eat. All carbs count. Carbohydrate counting can help you manage your blood glucose level.

All food is a combination of protein, fats, carbohydrates, vitamins, minerals and water. Carbohydrates, which include starches and sugars, have the greatest effect on blood glucose.

Carbohydrates in foods are changed into glucose in the body about 1 to 1.5 hours after you eat them. Eating carbs in small amounts several times a day will keep blood glucose as close to normal as possible. It is never the goal to eliminate carbohydrates.

Fats and proteins don't raise blood glucose but should be managed to control overall calorie intake and therefore provide weight management.

Counting carbs will help you spread your carbohydrate intake throughout the day. It will help you manage weight and help keep your blood glucose under control.

The following foods contain carbohydrates. Notice that they aren't all sweet foods.Some are vegetables, fruits and dairy foods.

Breads, cereals, crackers, biscuits, pasta, tortillas, bagels, pita bread

Grains (rice, corn, wheat, oats, bulgur, couscous)

Dried beans (red, navy, black, garbanzo and pinto beans) and soy products

Starchy vegetables (potato, corn, peas, winter squash and pumpkin)

Fruits (fresh, canned, dried) and fruit juices

Milk and yogurt

Sweets like candies, jams and jellies

Snack foods like chips and pretzels

Desserts such as cookies, pies, ice cream and puddings

Sugary drinks such as sodas, juice drinks and sweet tea

The Extension Office has a publication on carbohydrate counting that will help you determine the amount of a food item that has 15 grams of carbohydrates.

Search for FCS3-546 for the publication on-line or come by the Extension Office for a copy.

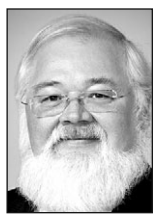
Hospital announces humanitarian award winners

From staff reports

Frank Manns, Jaime Montalvo, MD, and Priscilla Gershman were recently awarded Frankfort Regional Medical Center's 2011 Frist Humanitarian Award as employee, physician, and volunteer of the year, respectively.



Manns

The honor places Manns, Montalvo and Gershman in nomination for the nationwide Frist Humanitarian Award, the highest honor an employee or volunteer can receive within Hospital Corporation of America (HCA), the parent company of Frankfort Regional Medical Center.

The Frist Humanitarian Awards were created to recognize one employee, one physician and one volunteer at each HCA-affiliated facility who demonstrate extraordinary concern for the welfare and happiness of patients and their community, according to a news release.

The Frist Humanitarian Awards are given annually in recognition of the humanitarian spirit and philanthropic work of the late Dr. Thomas F. Frist Sr., a founder of HCA.

Montalvo

National recipients will be honored in the spring at a reception at the company's Nashville headquarters.

Last year, Frankfort Regional's director of engineering, Arnie LeMay, was the national employee recipient of the Frist Humanitarian Award.

"I am very proud to present these awards," said Chip Peal, chief executive officer at Frankfort Regional Medical Center.

"Frank Manns, Dr. Montalvo and Priscilla Gershman are an inspiration to all our employees, physicians and volunteers. Their generosity and dedication serve as a living example of both Frankfort Regional's and HCA's commitment to the care and improvement of human life."

Manns has worked at Frankfort Regional Medical Center for over 31 years. Currently, he serves as project coordinator in the engineering department, where he consistently goes out of his way to serve the hospital's patients and visitors.

Gershman

Montalvo currently works in Frankfort Regional's emergency department, where he has for the past 13 years.

He takes several mission trips each year giving of his time and resources while improving the lives of others.

Gershman has volunteered at the hospital since August 2008. She assists in the main lobby next to the registration and information desk, assisting patients and visitors.

Gershman can always be found with a smile on her face and a willingness to help patients and families, according to the news release. In addition to her volunteer work at the hospital, Gershman also helps with the Kentucky legislative session, Senior Citizens Center and the YMCA.

After continuing to search the vehicle, Cornish said he found another cigarette pack containing one bag of meth, one bottle of Red Crown high test lye and one box of pseudoephedrine.

Cornish questioned Medley's sole passenger, 20-year-old Evan Cochran, who told the officer that he was being paid by Medley to "smurf" or purchase the pseudoephedrine for him.

At the time of his arrest Medley, who listed his residence as 1141 Versailles Road, was driving the vehicle of Katie Jo Stratton, 26, of 548 Hickory Drive.

According to the police report, Stratton told police Medley had been staying at the Hickory residence for a little while.

Cornish said he received tips about possible meth production at 548 Hickory Drive about a week and a half ago.

"I had been watching them, but this was a break in the case, this traffic stop," Cornish said.

City police obtained written consent to search the residence and found evidence of four previous "shake and bake" meth labs, including lithium, four hydrochloric gas generators, ammonia nitrate crystals from cold packs, several receipts for the purchase of Sudafed, tubing and punctured ether cans.

Kentucky State Police responded to the scene at about 8:30 p.m. to clean up the meth labs.

Medley faces charges of a failure to wear a seat belt, operating on suspended license, first offense trafficking for 2 grams or greater of methamphetamine, first offense manufacturing for meth and buying or possessing drug paraphernalia.

Both Cochran and Stratton and Paula Bell, 49, have been charged with a first offense of manufacturing meth and first offense unlawful distribution of a meth precursor, according to police.

Bell, listed on the lease of the Hickory residence, told police she had snorted meth with Medley and had previously purchased two boxes of pseudoephedrine for him, according to police.

Brian Bell, 25, of 1821 Glensboro Road also told police that he had snorted meth with Medley.

He was charged with one count of manufacturing meth, according to police.

As of press time, bond amounts for those facing charges had not been set.

Major Susan Johnson, a paramedic, and Public Safety Director Bart Powell administer treatment to EMT Doug Green from inside of an inflatable hospital last Thursday afternoon. The facility is owned by the state but stored in Anderson County.

An inflatable hospital, just in case

Safety officials demonstrate 16-patient mobile facility

By Ben Carlson
News staff

What has 16 rooms, suction, oxygen and four inflated walls?

Anderson County's version of a hospital, that's what.

OK, hospital might be a bit grand, but if the need arose to treat mass casualties on a moment's notice, local emergency responders do have an inflatable device that can house up to 16 patients.

It even has heart monitors.

Owned by the state but stored here just in case, the facility was on display last Thursday outside of the EMS building on US 127 Bypass.

"It's a state asset," said Anderson County Public Safety Director Bart Powell, who, along with his staff, was preparing for mandatory state meetings and drills scheduled for this later this month. "We can use it during a natural disaster or a [weapons of mass destruction] event.

"If an area hospital's emergency room were decimated, we could take there and function in the parking lot."

And it's mobile.

Powell said the facility can be moved to wherever it is needed, even outside of Anderson County if the need arose.

During a demonstration, EMT Doug Green portrayed a patient while Powell and paramedic Susan Johnson, a major, treated him on one of the unit's 16 beds, complete with oxygen and a heart monitor.

Powell said the 700 pound tent can be inflated in about five minutes and is fully operational in about an hour. It comes with its own inflation unit, along with a 15 kilowatt generator and a 40,000 BTU heat and air conditioning system.

"It's good for people to know that we're sitting on these types of assets," Powell said.

Dancers selected to attend convention in New York

Girls to host fundraisers, seeks donation to fund coming trip

From staff reports

The Kelley Puckett Dance Academy Dance Team was recently selected to attend the 2012 All Star Dancers National Dance Convention in New York City, according to a news release.

The team was chosen from hundreds of groups to attend when they performed a group jazz routine at the Applause Talent Dance Competition in Louisville.

The five-day convention will include a dance workshop and mock audition taught by the world famous Radio City Rockettes at Radio City Music Hall.

The tour will also include master dance classes at New York's premier dance studio, The Broadway Dance Center.

Students also have classes taught by New York's Broadway show performers.

This is a tremendous honor for the dancers and a once in a lifetime opportunity, according to a news release.

The team has planned several fundraisers to raise money for the trip. A "Parent's Day Out" will be held at Kelley Puckett Dance Academy on May 12, and anyone ages 3 and up may attend.

Dance classes and other fun events are planned for children that day.

The academy will also raffle off a year's worth of free dance class to help raise funds, and other fundraisers are also being planned.

Those interested in Parent's Day Out or entering the raffle are asked to call Kelley Puckett at 839-0776 or by email at kpuckett@kelldance.com.

Donations can also be sent to KPDA Dance Team, 201 East Court St., Lawrenceburg, KY 40342.

"Any help that can be offered to help these dancers make their dream a reality would be greatly appreciated,"

Want to help?

Donations to assist the Kelley Puckett Dance Team's trip can be mailed to KPDA Dance Team, 201 East Court St., Lawrenceburg, KY 40342.
For more information, call 839-0776 or email kpuckett@kelldance.com.

National Legion Commander visits Lawrenceburg Healing Field

From staff reports

The American Legion National Commander Fang Wong and his aide Doug Malin came to Lawrenceburg to visit the Kentucky Auxiliary Healing Field.

Accompanying him were Department of Kentucky Commander Doug Farley Sr., Senior Vice Commander Joe Flynn, Service Officer and Alternate National Executive Committee Member Randy Fisher, Public Relations Steve Stewart, Historian John Mullins and Finance Officer Silas Noel.

They were escorted from Elizabethtown by Post 113 motorcyclists.

Post 34 Commander Bobby Thornberry and Auxiliary members welcoming the visitors were Department President Lois Hall, Department Secretary Janet Klapheke and Department Membership Chairman and Unit 34 member Pam Rice. Health officials want smoke-free Mother's Day

From staff reports

Mother's Day is a day to celebrate moms for who they are and all of the wonderful things they do, Anderson County Health Department officials said in a news release.

It is also a great time for moms to remember the important role they play in influencing the choices their kids make regarding tobacco use.

Unfortunately, tobacco use among women remains a serious problem: more than 21 million women currently smoke, putting them at risk for heart attacks, strokes, lung cancer, emphysema and other life-threatening illnesses. An estimated 173,000 women die every year from smoking, and more than 86,000 kids have already lost their mom to smoking, according to the news release.

Moms who smoke can celebrate Mother's Day by quitting, and all moms, whether or not they smoke, can celebrate Mother's Day by taking a number of effective actions to protect their kids. Even if they smoke, what moms say, how they act, and the values they communicate through their words and deeds have an enormous influence on whether or not their kids smoke, the news release states. And all moms, smokers and nonsmokers alike, can also do a lot to protect their kids from secondhand smoke.

How can moms keep their children from smoking?

Parents are the most important people in a child's life, especially when it comes to cigarettes. They can make a big difference in the choices their children make.

If you smoke, quit. If you can't quit, keep trying. Children from families who smoke are twice as likely to become smokers themselves – but parents who try to quit and talk to their kids about how addictive smoking is, why they want to quit, and how important it is to never start, can beat those odds, health officials said.

Maintain a totally smoke-free home and car, (even if you smoke).

Educate your child about the dangers of cigarette smoking.

Talk about addiction and how hard it is to quit smoking.

Emphasize the immediate health effects.

Emphasize the effects of smoking on physical appearance.

Talk to your kids about how tobacco companies target them by trying to make tobacco use seem cool so they can addict them as customers for life

Clear up any misunderstandings your child might have about smoking. For example: everybody is not doing it, getting hooked can happen very quickly, and quitting is very difficult.

Make sure your kids' schools have strong and well-enforced no-smoking rules for kids and staff.

Support federal, state, and local tobacco-prevention efforts like higher tobacco taxes, funding for tobacco prevention programs, and smoke-free laws.

Mothers who give up smoking improve the likelihood that their children will grow-up to be tobacco-free and lead much longer lives.

THANK YOU

The family of Richard 'Woodie' Woodside wish to express a special thank you to the Kentucky State Police for their kindness during the loss of our loved one.

Students show love of country in mural

From staff reports

Eighth graders Caitlyn Mehs and Hallie Morgan have been painting a mural on the lobby wall at Anderson County Middle School.

The mural depicts rolling hills and tall grass of the country side complete with a barn and two tractors to represent the opposing tastes at the middle school, according to a middle school press release.

Caitlyn Mehs and Hallie Morgan got the idea because they both love the country.

"I love big red barns, my grandparents have one to keep their horses in and I've grown up always liking the fact that red is a perfect color for a barn," Mehs said.

The students learned how to make even brush strokes, how to mix colors, how to plan ahead and especially they learned that a painting this large takes a long time to paint. Having only one class period a day to paint, it took the students took them 14 weeks to complete the mural.

Junior wins opportunity to test flight plan

From staff reports

Anderson County High School junior Blake Roach recently won first place in the student technology leadership program State competition in the area of aviation.

Roach has been invited to visit the Eastern Kentucky University's Aviation Department and will have a chance to fly his winning flight plan on one of the university's flight simulators.

The competition, sponsored by EKU, consists of different aviation challenges each year.

This year's challenge was to construct a flight plan given specific criteria.

"After the competition, I was told that Blake's idea to break his flight plan into three chunks was very advanced and played a big part in winning this year's competition," said Roach's teacher, Steve McKaig,

Roach said he has plans to visit EKU once finals are over.

Zumba fitness class offered at ACE

From staff reports

Anderson Community Education will offer Zumba fitness classes, the agency announced.

Classes will be Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5:45 to 6:45 p.m. beginning May 15 at the high school cafeteria.

Cost is $45 for 10 sessions, or $5 per session.

Zumba is described as a "fusion of Latin and international music-dance themes that creates a dynamic, exciting, and effective fitness workout," according to a news release.

The routines feature aerobics training with a combination of fast and slow rhythms that tone and sculpt the body.

Participants must be at least 13 years old, and are asked to wear comfortable clothing and sneakers.

Call Jacque Zeller at 839-3754 or email jacque.zeller@anderson.kyschools.us to register.

DRURY WINS SCHOLARSHIP

EDUCATION BRIEFS

Downing named outstanding grad

Bluegrass Community and Technical College (BCTC) student Jennifer Downing of Lawrenceburg was selected as the 2012 Outstanding Program Graduate of the human services program, according to a news release from the school.

Downing

Faculty members select one student from each of the BCTC programs as an outstanding program graduate.

The distinction recognizes students who have exhibited strong leadership, exceeded criteria and expectations in their degree program, and demonstrated academic excellence.

Thirty-three students were selected as 2012 BCTC outstanding program graduates and were be honored at the BCTC graduation ceremony at Kentucky Horse Park in Lexington.

Powell awarded Spanish immersion scholarship

Maggie Powell, a senior at Anderson County High School, has been awarded a four-year scholarship to participate in the new Inmersión en Español-Spanish Immersion program at Georgetown College beginning in August.

IEGC gives students the opportunity to take a third of their required coursework entirely in Spanish, to provide students with a meaningful path to fluency, according to a news release.

Students with either a high level of Spanish or who speak the language natively are welcome to apply for the scholarship by visiting www.georgetowncollege.edu/ie.

Powell has taken through AP Spanish and plans to study accounting at Georgetown College.

D.A.R.E. students celebrate with picnic

Nearly 300 fifth grade students celebrated D.A.R.E. graduation last Friday, marking a quarter century for the program designed to keep children away from drugs and alcohol.

It was also the 25th and final time that Sheriff Troy Young will oversee the event. Deputies Paul Blackhurst and Robbie Armstrong will take over the program next year.

"Thanks to my wife, Benita, my family and everyone else that made my day special for me. It's a memory that will last a lifetime," Young said.

The day began with a graduation ceremony, followed by a picnic in the county park that featured 60 large pizzas, 240 hot dogs, 400 bags of chips and 480 bottles of water.

"[A] big thanks to EMS for always going above and beyond the call of duty, all the guys at ACSO for having things ready to roll for us, the teachers, parents and especially the students for making my last year teaching the greatest ever," Young said.

JACOB STEWART CITIZEN OF THE MONTH

The Way We Were

50 YEARS AGO
May 10, 1962

Ed Grace was named president of the newly reactivated Anderson County Sportsmen's Club. There were about 30 members at the first meeting.

Other officers were: Arlie Gritton, vice president; Billy Sayre, secretary-treasurer. The club had been inactive for about two years.

Charlotte Vaughn, junior student at the University of Kentucky, was recognized for distinguished academic achievement at the annual Honors Day ceremonies at Memorial hall.

The Western High graduate is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Turner of Sinai and was majoring in education.

Deaths

John Connie Lloyd, 78, who operated Lloyd's Furniture Store since 1935, and had served several terms on the City Board of Supervisors; Thomas Chester Carter, 88; Ross L. Warren, 60, employee of Kentucky Training Home in Frankfort; Cordie Shields Griffy, 72, widow of J. Tollie Griffy; Ernest Harris Harlow, 67, resident of Tyrone.

30 YEARS AGO
May 6, 1982

Steve Barriger, a former assistant coach at ACHS and head coach the past four seasons, resigned his coaching position.

He had taken over the basketball program following the resignation of Ron Reed in 1978.

Carl "Farmer" McGaughey and Judge Hollie Warford were presented lifetime memberships to the Lions Club by Ray Best, president of the Lawrenceburg chapter.

Both men missed being charter members by two years. Both had been president, vice president, treasurer and director of the Lion with McGaughey also taking the position of chairman of finance, activities, membership and program committees. Warford had also served as chairman of the sign committee.

Warford had been county judge for 14 years and McGaughey had served as property valuation administrator for a number of years.

The Beta Sigma Phi honored Virginia Homan as the "First Lady of The Year".

Family and friends honored Minnie Brothers on her 88th birthday. On hand for the occasion were Cordie Barnett, Edith Pinkston, Rebecca Springate, her son Neal Brothers, Penny Carter, granddaughter; Hazel Brothers, Bro. Billy Ford, minister of the Fairview Christian Church; and great-granddaughters, Kelly and Wendy.

George Inman Jr., of Green Meadows, donated his 10th gallon of blood to the American Red Cross. Truman Birdwhistell, chairman of the blood drive, presented Inman with a certificate for his outstanding achievement.

Obed Drury and Janie Drury (no relation) were crowned 1981-82 Prom King and Queen at Western Anderson. The couple gladly rested on the swing after their royal dance and posed for a picture. The previous year's royalty, John Hawkins and Cindy Welch Crutcher, crowned them. Attendants were: Carla Gash, David Caldwell, Andrea Bratcher, Gill Crouch, Jeff Drury, Renee Durr, Cynthia Steilberg and Tommy Burns. The royal couple and all the attendants were seniors.

LAYING TILE

A $25,000 tile-laying machine is shown digging a ditch for laying tile. It was to provide internal draining on fields to be used for tobacco on the R C. Catlett and Joe Sparrow farms at Glensboro in the spring of 1962. Approximately 3,500 feet of the tile had been installed at a cost of 28 cents per foot according to Soil Conservation Technician Larry Montgomery. The local A.S.C. office shared one-half of the cost of the drainage practice. This is the first tile draining system built in this county with this equipment and there were only two or three in the Lexington area. The U.S. Soil Conservation Service furnished the engineering and design work. Watching the operation are front to back, Soil Conservationist Lewis Bishop, Gilbert Sparrow, Joe Sparrow and James Kirkland, Lebanon, owner and operator of the machinery. A workman is shown laying the tile.

Deaths

Earl Wilbur Burgin, 86, retired farmer; Willie Simpson, 80, retired foreman in the Jefferson County Road Department and a retired farmer; Charlie W. Drury, 81, retired farmer; Mildred Irene Davies Atkins, 71, a teacher for 22 years, including 18 as first grade teacher at Saffell Elementary.

15 YEARS AGO
May 7, 1997

Honor graduates with a 3.5 or better grade point average were: Tim Wells, Chris Watts, Misty Robinson, Micki Parrish, Jessica Mach, Amanda Lunsford, Leslie Lilly, Sabrina Keokuk, Norma James, Raymond Houp, Elisha Hendricks, Chris Emmons, Jared Drury, Sarah Dahlen, Alicia Curtsinger, Shawn Crowe, Justin Carey and Jessi Blackburn.

Ronda Sue Combs graduated from Western Kentucky University with bachelor of arts in government/pre-law and a minor in English.

She is a daughter of Alla Case Welch of Lawrenceburg and Ron Combs of Hazard and the granddaughter of Ruby Leathers Gabbard of Lawrenceburg and Glenn Combs of Hazard.

Some students in Cozette Hank's primary 2-3 class at Saffell Street Elementary read enough books to become gold medal winners. The goal was that each student read 10 books a month between October and February for the Book-It program sponsored by Pizza Hut. Some months these students read up to 100 books. They were: Toshua Mitchell, Sara Beth Rogers, Jessica Morgan, Samantha Horseman, Timothy Bentley, Raquelle Koontz, Nicole Smith, Nikki Murphy, Brandi Flood and Kelly Fuqua.

Birdwhistell & Perry farm was recognized nationally by the American Angus Association for having one registered Angus cow included in the American Angus Associations 1997 Pathfinder Report.

Only 1,661 of the more than 30,000 members of the association were represented in the 1997 report.

The Pathfinder program identifies superior Angus cows based upon recorded performance traits that are economically important to efficient beef production.

Jacob Stewart was chosen Citizen of the Month after one of his teachers, Kathy Wright, nominated him.

Stewart's instinctive reaction saved Wright's life during class when she choked on some medicine.

Ward Elementary students raised $11,575 for the American Heart Association through Jump Rope for Heart. Members of the first place team raised $326.50. Team members were: Josh Yenste, who raised the most with $175; Callie Hanks, Laurel Christensen, Beth Chilton, Jenna Smith, Karla Phillips.

Katie Perry placed second with $167 and Shane Meece came in third with $165. Members of the second place team raised a total of $293. Team members were: Shane Meece, Ronnie Simpson and Kevin Bransom.

Deaths

A former Anderson County magistrate died at age 86. Alex Gilbert "Tebo" Perry was magistrate from 1972 to 1980. He was former self-employed milk, cattle, coal and water truck hauler, and a retired maintenance worker for the Kentucky State Highway Dept.

Edna Mae Robinson Case, 73, former dietitian for Hazelwood Hospital in Louisville; Sandra G. Darland, 49, former church recording secretary and a co-sponsor of the Bethel Sunshiners at Bethel Baptist Church; Edwin Carroll Yeager, 57, employee of Square D Company.

Meet Blake

DOB: 6/15/96. When Blake first meets someone, he introduces himself as being just like Abraham Lincoln, because he, too, is tall and thin. Blake sure chose a great alter ego, didn't he? Like the sixteenth president, Blake is also a very good student, and did really well in school last year, making four A's and one B. His favorite subject in school is science. Blake is not sure yet what he'd like to do when he gets older; possibly be a truck driver or a mailman. One of Blake's favorite restaurants is Taco Bell and he also likes pizza. He likes pro football and college basketball, and can speak very knowledgeably about his favorite teams. He likes wrestling, too. He also loves video games and is good at playing them. Blake immediately forms an everlasting bond with everyone he meets. He recently told the judge that he just wanted to make sure he gets a good family, where he will be loved and safe from harm. Can you provide this wonderful young man a loving family to call his own?

Repentance is difficult, especially for me

Jess Thompson
Faith columnist

Believe it or not, the many of my columns I write are directed to some degree at myself. As I travel along my spiritual walk with God through success and often time failure, I stumble across lots of questions.

On my mind this morning is what does the Bible tell us about repentance? What do you know or consider repentance to be? Repentance is fundamentally confessing our sins, right?

The Bible is very clear that it is much deeper that merely verbally exposing our sinful ways. The following text is spoken by John the Baptist; Mat 3:7-9, 7: "But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to his baptism, he said unto them, Ye offspring of vipers, who warned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8: "Bring forth therefore fruit worthy of repentance. 9: and think not to say within yourselves, We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham."10: And even now the axe lieth at the root of the trees: every tree therefore that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire."

John is calling the people to change their ways, not only to confess. Repentance is much more that confession, it is a change of heart and mind.

Luke 15:10 tells us: "There is rejoicing in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner who repents."

This scripture says that it's a really big deal made in heaven over one single person.

That's interesting. Might just be room for me. In Deuteronomy, Chapter 31: "Moses rebukes the Children of Israel speaking of the evil they will do in the future and of their rebellious hearts calling for repentance."

Much like our own, we must repent daily, perhaps hourly, not just once a week or even year. Repentance is a critical part of salvation and especially sanctification. Repentance is a tough idea in my own life indeed.

Brother Paul Washer says, "Christianity is not a once and for all flu shot. Salvation is not past tense. It's also present. A person that can show no mark of the sanctifying work of God in their life has no assurance they have been justified."

I think that repentance plays a key role here. How do you repent and what do you repent for? Do you repent of sins you are purposefully going to continue to do? If so that is no repentance at all. I think I may have used this example from "Not A Fan," a man was being counseled with about his salvation.

The question was asked: If you die tonight, would you be going to Heaven or Hell? The respondent came under conviction, and acknowledged his need for a savior.

But after a while the man came to understand what a committed Christian life would look like, he remarked, but I didn't die that night. He continued to live for self." This could very well be my own testimony.

I John :5 "This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all. If we say we have fellowship with him, and walk in, and darkness we lie, and the truth is not in us. But If we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanses us from all sin. If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all."

A DIFFERENT SORT OF MARATHON

Felix Hilsky, a German exchange student at the Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg, reads the Bible in German during the eighth annual Bible Reading Marathon, held in front of the courthouse in Springfield earlier this month. The marathon featured 90 hours of continuous reading, and including participants Mark Wells, associate pastor at Fox Creek Christian Church, and Nicol Morel, an exchange student from the Dominican Republic.

CHURCH BRIEFS

Youth group collecting items for Sunset Hill

Alton Christian Church's youth will collect items for Sunset Hill during May, the church announced.

Items needed include men's shower gel, shaving cream, razors, deodorant, board games, socks, men's house shoes size sizes 8 to 12, shampoo and combs.

All items can be dropped off at Alton Christian Church on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to noon.

The youth class is reading the book of Mark on Sunday mornings and Wednesday nights, as well as studying the book of Job on Sunday evenings.

Alton Christian Church is located at 1686 Old Frankfort Road in Lawrenceburg.

The Word of God is the Will of God

What is so hard about the title of this article? The Holy Spirit searched out the mind of God and has revealed the will of God. 1 Cor. 2:9-12 "But as it is written: Eye has not seen, nor ear heard, Nor have entered into the heart of man the things which God has prepared for those who love Him. But God has revealed them to us through His Spirit. For the Spirit searches all things, yes, the deep things of God. For what man knows the things of a man except the spirit of the man which is in him? Even so no one knows the things of God except the Spirit of God. Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit who is from God, that we might know the things that have been freely given us by God."

The apostles wrote down the will of God. Ephesians 3:3-5 "How that by revelation He made known to us the mystery (as I have briefly written already, by which when you read, you may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ), which in other ages was not made known to the sons of men, as it has now been revealed by the Spirit to His holy apostles and prophets."

The Bible being the will and mind of God will judge us on the last day (John 12:48). Since we are going to meet up with God's will, doesn't it behoove us to study, mediate and live by His will?

Oh mercy!

Well-intentioned new hoops rule sounds better than it is

In case you missed it, there will be a major change in high school basketball next year.

A few weeks ago, the Kentucky High School Athletic Association announced it would begin using a form of the "mercy rule" by having a running clock after one team is ahead by 35 points or more in the second half.

John Herndon
Sports editor

It was met with a lot of applause, usually for an emphasis on sportsmanship and not beating a team mercilessly.

Here is one, though, that is not crazy about the rule. And I base my take on things based on experience.

Before I go any farther, let me make it clear that I am all for sportsmanship and hate to see teams just get bludgeoned. I have written about high school basketball since 1985 and have seen more than my share of one-sided games. I have seen Anderson County teams steamroll teams and I have seen a few times when local teams were on the wrong end of one-sided contests.

If you remember, much of the second half of last year's state championship football game was played with a running clock as Bowling Green was just that much better than Anderson County. The Purples reached football's 45-point threshold midway through the third quarter.

As some have correctly pointed out many times, there are times when the blowouts can't be helped. It is especially true in some districts where one team is far better than the others or one is far worse than all of the others.

And, there are times when things just happen. You can't explain why a team cannot miss shots on a given night and the team taking the beating can do nothing right. If you are in the game long enough, you will probably be on both sides of that mystery.

But I really doubt such a rule is necessary in basketball.

In other sports, there are varying degrees of the mercy-rule, which probably works best in baseball and softball. In those sports, if a team is ahead by 10 runs after five innings, the game is over. In softball, it can also be called if a team is up by 15 after three innings. Usually when that happens, there is really little a coach or team can do to hold the score down.

High school soccer has a 10-goal lead rule, one that is rarely used, but some coaches try to work on things once they get a five- or six-goal lead. Anderson County girls' soccer coach Jason Earnest, for example, will not allow his team to take shots on goal unless by a header in that situation. He wants his team to work on passing and ball control when way ahead.

However, what I have seen in football gives credence to my reservations about a mercy-rule basketball too.

Example No. 1: Last fall, Anderson's football team scored with 48 seconds left in the first half to make the score 50-7 against Shelby County. The Bearcats called timeout to go for two points and were successful.

Understandably, some around the Shelby program were upset by what they perceived as an unnecessary piling on the points.

But if I were coaching, I would have done the same thing in order to get the clock running for the entire second half. That is how the rules are today and it did make for a quick second half.

Example No. 2: It has happened to the Bearcats as well. Ten years ago, the Bearcats had the misfortune of playing Highlands in the first round of the playoffs. The Bluebirds had the ball and a 42-0 lead late in the first half, but called time to try to tack on another score. They failed at the time, but it just felt weird seeing a team calling time out trying to score when it was already up by six touchdowns.

Things like that undoubtedly cause unnecessary hard feelings and frustration among players, fans and coaches.

In many ways, basketball is different, for sure. But I can see teams keeping the press on or leaving starters in longer to get to the 35-point mark.

To be sure, the 35-point threshold is not often reached, so the new rule should not be a common occurrence.

The Anderson County boys' basketball program has had only eight games (all wins) decided by 35 or more points in the last five seasons. Two were this year as the Bearcats routed Nicholas County and Deming in the Bracken County tournament. However, going back to the 2007-2008 season, most of the romps came against former district

Collins rips Bearcats in district game

Anderson gets just two hits against Titans

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

You might say that Collins High's baseball team had a titanic effort Monday night.

The Titans broke a four-game losing streak with a total performance in routing homestanding Anderson County, 8-0, in a decision that ended Anderson's hope for the top seed in the 30th District Tournament.

Senior right-hander Chris Cervantes silenced the Anderson bats, pitching 5.2 innings of hitless ball before Cole Sayre ripped a ground-rule double. Granville Hayes followed Sayre with a single but Sayre had to hold up at third.

It did not matter. By that time, Collins had already made a statement that it is the team to beat in the district and possibly in the region. Cervantes, the Titans' top hurler, struck out the first three batters he faced and was dominant through six innings. He eventually struck out seven, but walked three.

Anderson County catcher Brice Stockton unsuccessfully tries to tag Collins' Nate Clifton as Clifton scores the first run of the Titans' 8-0 win over the Bearcats Monday night. Looking on is Landon Case.

Dan Sanders came on in relief in the seventh to strike out two and close out the win.

Anderson was not even close to a hit until Sayre ripped a line drive to the gap in left-center.

"If I had the answer, we would have had more than two hits," Anderson coach L.W. Barnes said when Asbury's Mary Ann Warford tries to bunt for a hit in the KIAC tournament opener against Brescia Friday in Frankfort. Asbury finished second.

Warford named KIAC Player of the Year

Drury repeats as all-conference first team selection

From staff reports

Prior to the start of the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Softball Tournament the league coaches voted Asbury senior centerfielder Mary Ann Warford Player of the Year. Warford, is a 2008 graduate of Anderson County High School.

Another Anderson County grad, Asbury senior Miranda Drury, was also selected to the all-conference team. Three other Eagles, freshman Julie Jarboe, junior Maris Harreld and junior Kelsey Robinson were also selected to the all-conference team according to a news release.

Asbury's Miranda Drury (holding bat) celebrates with teammate Maris Harreld after the Eagles had tied Brescia in Friday's KIAC Tournament game.

Going into the KIAC tournament, Warford ranked 11th in the NAIA in batting average, at .476, and with 34 stolen bases. She racked up 69 hits during the regular season which led the conference and set a school record for a single season. Now a three-time all-conference selection, Warford was also named to the NCCAA Mid-East Region team and was selected as the school's first female Capitol One Academic All-District selection. She is the second KIAC Player of the Year in school history after Carrie Wilderman won the award in 2009.

Miranda Drury was selected to the all-conference team for the third consecutive year. The senior went into the tournament hitting .368 with team highs in doubles (14), home runs (5) and RBI (31). She also led Anderson County's Lowell Gordon serves at Shelby County last week while teammate Luke Warford looks on. The tandem is ranked as one of the best in the Eighth Region and had advanced to the regional quarterfinals at press time.

Tennis regionals underway

From staff reports

Anderson County's top tennis tandem of Lowell Gordon and Luke Warford won its first two matches in the Region 8 tennis tournament, being held at Franklin County High School on Monday.

The duo, ranked one of the best in the region, advanced to the quarterfinals, which were to begin Tuesday afternoon.

The doubles team of T.J. Pham and Ty Glover also advanced to the quarters, as did singles player Ben McDonald.

All of Anderson's entries in the girls' Region 8 tournament advanced into the second round Monday at Western Hills High School

Because of press deadlines, complete information on the regional tournament was not available for the print edition of The Anderson News but it will be posted at www.theandersonnews.com as soon as it is available.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Anderson County United Way Golf Classic to be held May 12

The annual Anderson County United Way Golf Classic will be held on Saturday, May 12 at Wild Turkey Trace Golf Course. Tee time is 1 p.m.

The tournament will use the scramble format with a cost of $240 per 4-person team or $60 per person, according to a news release.

The scramble fee includes a casual lunch of grilled hot dogs and hamburgers to be served throughouth the tournament along with a full dinner to be served afterward. Team and individual prizes, along with door prizes, will be awarded. The first-place winning team will have its names engraved on the tournament plaque, which hangs in the course clubhouse year-round.

There will be a silent auction of items such as designer sunglasses, designer watch, baskets containing bottles of bourbon signed by the local master distillers, plus other related gifts.

The United Way in Anderson County is affiliated with the United Way of the Bluegrass headquartered in Lexington. Money raised here benefits many Anderson County causes such as Senior Citizens, Adult Day Care, Meals on Wheels, Domestic Violence Prevention, Child Abuse Prevention, and several youth programs.

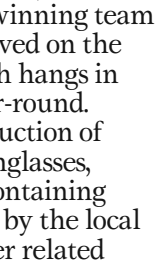
Strongman contest Saturday at Eagle Lake

The fifth annual Beast of the Bluegrass Strongman competition will take place on Saturday, May 12 at Eagle Lake Convention Center, Expo 2. Over 60 competitors from Kentucky and surrounding states are expected to participate in various events, including the atlas stones, giant tire flip and the car walk. A car dead lift is also on the program.

Admission to the event is $5 per person, with concessions and t-shirts available.

Horton finishes Flying Pig Marathon

Anderson County native Hannah Horton, featured in the May 2 edition of The Anderson News, was able to finish her first marathon Sunday in the Flying Pig Marathon in Cincinnati. Horton says she finished the 26.2 mile race in 4 hours, 46 minutes, by her watch, but officially in 5:01.



Horton

"It was an excellent albeit hard race and my body is now recovering from being pushed to the limit. I can honestly say I know what hitting the wall feels like and without crowd support and an awesome group handing out wet towels I might not have made it thru. Although it was really hard, it was probably the most fun I have had while running," Horton said in an e-mail.

Horton had said she wanted a piece of her mother's cake when she finished and she indulged Sunday. "The piece of cake was delicious afterwards," she said.

Another Anderson County resident, Daniel Drury, reports that he finished the Flying Pig half-marathon, also held on Sunday in Cincinnati. His time was 1:56.41. His wife, Tiffany, finished the 10K race in 1:10.48.

Bearcat football camp dates announced

Anderson County High School football coach Mark Peach has announced that the Bearcats will be hosting a non-contact youth football camp from Monday, June 4 through Thursday, June 7 at Hollie Warford Stadium at the high school.

The camp will run from 9 a.m. until noon each day and is open to boys entering the second through eighth grades. Campers will need a pair of cleats and tennis shoes for the camp.

The cost is $60 for pre-registration, $65 the first day of camp with registration forms available at the high school and the respective schools throughout the county.

Volleyball camp date set

The Anderson County High School volleyball camp will be held on Saturday, June 23, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the school. The camp will be open to girls in grades 3-6. The camp's cost is $25 per person, which includes a camp t-shirt. Registration for the camp will begin at 9:30 a.m.

For more information, contact Bobby Hardin at rshardin@me.com.

Volleyball team to host alumni game

The inaugural Anderson County volleyball alumni fundraiser will be held on Saturday, July 21 beginning at 4 p.m. The cost to play is $20 per person with any alumni playing receiving a t-shirt. For more information, contact Bobby Hardin at rshardin@me.com or Courtney DeLong at Court6d@gmail.com.

Just drop The News an e-mail to have your news published

The surest way to get the word out about your Anderson County team is to have it published on the award-winning sports pages of The Anderson News.

Sending sports editor John Herndon notes on our website at www.theandersonnews.com or via e-mail at jpherndon@theandersonnews.com are, by far, the easiest and preferred ways to submit information and pictures.

The News also accepts submissions delivered by mail or in person at our office, located at 1080 Bypass South, Lawrenceburg.

Sports submissions must reach The Anderson News office by noon on Friday for consideration in the following week's paper. Weekend results can be submitted until 9 a.m. on Monday, but the earlier, the better.

NICE CATCH

Brandon Allen Curtsinger, Lashae's brother, killed his turkey April 29. It weighed 22 pounds and had an 11.25-inch beard and 1.25-inch spurs.

Campbellsville baseball, softball, tennis teams going to nationals

From staff reports

Three Campellsville University teams with Anderson County residents on the respective rosters have received bids to various postseason tournaments according to news releases from the school.

The Tiger baseball team, for which Jordan Alves serves as a student assistant coach, was ranked No. 27 in the NAIA's final coaches' poll and received a bid to the national tournament. The fourth-seeded Tigers will play five-seed St. Francis University of Illinois in regional play at Kingsport, Tenn., in the first game of the tournament on Thursday, May 10. With a win, the Tigers will advance to play Appalachian Athletic Conference champion Tennessee Wesleyan.

Campbellsville is making its fourth straight appearance in the NAIA baseball tournament.

The Campbellsville softball team, on which Anderson County resident Courtney Turpin plays, has received a bid and a No. 6 seed in the eight-team National Christian College Athletic Asssociation tournament, being held in Troutville, Va.

Turpin has been named to the second team All-Mid-South Conference team as a pitcher.

Campbellsville, 38-22 after a runner-up finish in the Mid-South Conference tournament, will play last year's NCCAA titlists, North Greenville, at 2:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 10.

Campbellsville's women's tennis team, ranked No. 18 in the NAIA, has also received a bid to the NCCAA national tournament for the second straight year. Anderson County resident Kristen Hamrick is a member of that team.

The Lady Tigers began play in the tournament on Tuesday and will be trying to advance in the pool play tournament, which is being held in Mobile, Ala.

Students of the Week

Kaylee Darnell

Grade and school: Fifth grade, Robert B. Turner Elementary School
Favorite subject: Reading
Favorite musical artist: Adele
Last book I read: 'Remnants'
Last movie I saw: 'Remember the Titans'
Person in history I'd most like to meet: Harriet Tubman
Future plans: To become a lawyer
Principal's comments: Kaylee is on the school archery team, academic team and choir. I am very proud that Kaylee was voted Student of the Week by the fifth-grade team of teachers, as she is a great student with a great attitude – one that enjoys practical jokes, as well. She is a shining star!

Jacob Barnett

Grade and school: Ninth grade, Phoenix Academy

the team in slugging percentage at .623. She ranked among the league leaders in nearly all offensive categories despite missing the first 12 games of the season.

KIAC Regular Season Champion Indiana-Southeast placed six players on the team, the most of any school. Asbury was second with five followed by Brescia with four, Berea with two and Midway and Alice Lloyd with one each. Brescia's Traci Smith was named Coach of the Year and Indiana-Southeast's Kayla Duke was named Pitcher of the Year for the third consecutive year.

SOFTBALL ROUNDUP

Spencer County wins over Anderson, Bullitt East bombs Lady Bearcats

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

It was simply not a good week for Anderson County softball.

Spencer County scored in the bottom of the eighth inning to defeat Anderson 8-7 last Wednesday night in Taylorsville.

Thursday, Bullitt East, ranked No. 24 in the state, pounded Anderson with a 10-0 mercy-rule decision on the Anderson field.

At Spencer, the Lady Bears scored five unearned runs to beat Anderson for the second time this year and the fourth straight time overall.

"We played awful," Anderson coach Brian Glass said.

Glass said pitchers Madison Brummett and Mackenzie Peavler both pitched well but got little help from the defense behind them. Brummett gave up six hits in five innings before Peavler came on in relief and gave up five hits in three innings.

"We didn't go after balls in the outfield. We missed signs," Glass said.

Pinch hitter Alyssa Vest homered with Kelsey New on base for Anderson in the seventh to send the game to extra innings. Playing under the international tie-breaker, Spencer was able to score the winning run. Spencer, which beat Shelby County the following night, was 11-10 through games of the weekend.

Glass was exasperated by how things turned out in the junior varsity game following. "The JV won 13-0 in four innings. Mia Aldridge pitched great. Spencer had seven of the nine starters out there and the pitcher who pitched in the varsity game came on in the second inning," he said. "So basically the same team and our JV mercy-ruled them in four innings."

Anderson could get one more shot at the Bears as the teams could face each other in the first round of district play. Spencer has yet to play Collins and must beat Collins to get the top seed.

The following night, Bullitt East showed why it has been ranked for much of the season. The Lady Chargers ripped 11 hits, six of them for extra bases in moving to 18-6 on the season.

"They hit our pitching extremely hard," Glass said. "They are an excellent hitting team. (Peavler and Brummett) were hitting their spots. They were well-hit balls."

The Chargers put four runs on the board in both the second and third innings. Kaylee McClure lined a shot over the left-field fence to make it 4-0 in the second put three hits, two of them doubles, and punished Anderson for an error over the span of five batters to make it 8-0 in the third.

Anderson had a chance to make things interesting in the bottom of the second, loading the bases with two out but came up empty. The Lady Bearcats had two on with one out in the third but could not score then, either.

"We just couldn't get the big hit, with runners on," Glass said.

Anderson got only four hits but Glass noted two of the Lady Bearcats' hardest hit balls – line shots by Corrin Robinson and Peavler, ended up being the victims of strong Bullitt East defense in the outfield.

"I thought the girls came out focused and ready to play," Glass said.

But the Lady Bearcats had nothing to show for it.

Anderson finished the week at 9-10.

Lady Beacats to host tourney

Anderson will host its own tournament for the first time in many years Friday and Saturday. The Lady Bearcats had a tournament scheduled several years ago but it was rained out.

Anderson will be pressed to win its own tourney as Bullitt Central, which was 16-6 through games of Saturday, and Owen County, 14-10, will be the Lady Bearcats' opponents in Friday's pool play games.

Saturday morning, Shelby County (5-17), Lexington Christian (2-19) and North Hardin (6-12 against a rugged schedule) will play in pool play games, with tournament play beginning at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday.

The championship game is set for 6 p.m. on Saturday.

about his team's woes against Cervantes, who was effective but did not appear overpowering. The Sentinel-News reported that Cervantes received a scholarship offer from Eastern Kentucky following his performance.

Meanwhile, Collins zeroed in on Anderson starter Landon Case the second time through the order. Collins sent nine men to the plate in the third inning when the Titans scored four runs. The way Cervantes was throwing, it was enough.

Nate Clifton led off by reaching on an Anderson error. He did not stop running until he got to third base. Clifton would score on Brandon Roberts' sacrifice fly but it was apparent it was not going to be Anderson's night when Zach Wiley, hitting in the five spot, singled, then came around to score despite two-baserunning gaffes. Wiley overran second base when he advanced on a throw home following his hit then scored Collins' fourth run on Buddy Johnson's single despite nearly colliding with coach Roy Bailey at third base.

"Case just didn't have any command tonight," Barnes said. Case gave up all eight of Collins' runs, five earned, in 4.2 innings of work. Steven Watts came on to retire all seven batters he faced.

Anderson, meanwhile, was futile in its attempts to get anything going.

Clifton and Jalen Spalding both homered for the Titans as they improved to 18-9 on the year. More importantly, Collins is now 2-0 in district play.

District scenarios

Collins will now play Shelby County on Thursday night for the regular season district title and the No. 1 seed in the tournament. The winner will be the district's top seed. Anderson would be the No. 3 seed if Shelby wins.

If Collins defeats Shelby, Collins wins the No. 1 seed with Anderson, Shelby and Spencer in three-way tie.

Under that scenario, it would appear that Anderson has the inside track on No. 2. Shelby would be No. 3 if it gives up less than four runs against Collins.

Anderson 6, Madison Southern 1

The Bearcats got a 6-1 win over Madison Southern at Lexington's Whitaker Bank Park on Friday night.

Watts, making a rare start in right field, drilled a home run over the right-center field fence.

It was the senior's first home run of his varsity career.

"It was just one of those things," Barnes said with a smile. "It worked out perfectly for Steven."

Clay Guffey got the victory, going six innings. Brandon Eliadis came on to finish the Eagles off in the seventh.

"Guffey pitched very well," Barnes said. "He walked a run in in the first, but settled down. I think he was nervous at first."

Danville 3, Anderson 1

Danville, ranked 14th in the state, scratched out a 3-1 win over the Bearcats last Wednesday in Danville.

Case and Watts each worked two scoreless innings, but the Admirals got three runs off Darrin Laswell.

Anderson was only able to get four hits off Danville starter Rob Caudill, who has signed with Davidson College.

Bearcats to host doubleheader on Saturday

The Bearcats will host Louisville Butler and North Bullitt in a doubleheader that begins at 11 a.m. on Saturday. Anderson will play Butler first, then will play North Bullitt at 2 p.m. The Anderson junior varsity will close the day out with a game against North Bullitt at approximately 4 p.m.

The Bearcats will travel to Scott County on Thursday and to Elizabethtown on Friday. They will get another chance against Danville on Monday and will host powerful Louisville Trinity on Tuesday.

A game against No. 3 Male, scheduled for this past Monday, was canceled when the Anderson-Collins game was postponed from Saturday.

Bearcat basketball team celebrates season

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

The Anderson County High School boys' basketball team celebrated a very successful season with the annual team awards banquet, held on April 29 at the high school.

The Bearcats finished the season at 21-9 and advanced to the Eighth Region tournament as the 30th District runner-up. Anderson opened the season with 11 straight wins, the best start ever for an Anderson team, then went on to earn the top seed in the 30th District Tournament.

Awards were presented with the words, "We Gave All" to signify the attitude that head coach Glen Drury tried to instill in the team.

Individual award winners recognized were: Seth Carmichael – Most On the Floors, Most Charges Taken, Most Offensive Rebounds and Most Valuable Player; Lowell Gordon – Most Consistent, Best Offensive, Best 3-Point Percentage and Most Valuable Player; Ross Cox – 110 Percent Award; Most Improved, Defensive Award; Darrin Laswell – 110 Percent Award, Most Deflections, Best Offensive Player and Most Valuable Player.

Christian Shepherd – Teammate of the Year; Spencer Ruggles – Defensive Award, Sixth Man Award and Most Valuable Player; Jay Smith – Best Free Throw Percentage, Most Assists, Most Rebounds and Most Valuable Player; Zach Kearns – Teammate of the Year; Darius Harvey – Teammate of the Year.

Christian Estes – Most Improved; Austin Linzy – Most Upcoming Player; Luke Mann – Most Upcoming Player; Kyle Sutherland – Coaches Award; Austin Hall – Most Blocked Shots, Most Improved Player, Best 2-Point Percentage; Tyler Harrod – Most Dependable.

Academic Awards went to Carmichael (4.091 grade point average), Gordon (3.946), Ruggles (4.246) and Laswell (4.214).

The Keith Foster Most Committed Award went to Jay Smith.

The Bearcat junior varsity posted a 26-2 record. Those receiving awards were: Cox – 110 Percent Award; Estes – Best Offensive Player; Linzy – Best Offensive and Most Rebounds; Harrod – 110 Percent; Kearns – Best Defensive Player and Coaches Award; Mann – Best 3-Point Percentage and Coaches Award; Shepherd – 110 Percent award; Sutherland – Defensive Award and 110 Percent Award; Austin Cummins – Most Steals; Damion King – Most Assists and Most Improved; Harvey – Most Improved.

Other JV players recognized were Blake Moss, Blake Trimble and Tyson Yett.

No freshman individual awards were presented but all 14 players were recognized.

They are: Cummins, Caleb Shepherd, King, Josh Brown, Zach Carmichael, Tyler Brothers, Brayden Russell, Cole Labhart, Chris Sea, Landon Curry, Dusty Puckett, Max Hudnall, Dylan Stratton and Dylan Scott. The Bearcat freshmen finished the season at 15-3.

rival Eminence, one of the smallest schools in the state.

The Anderson girls are 16-0 in 35-point games over that same time frame. They had two in the 2011-12 season, both against Spencer County.

While I really do understand the rationale behind the new rule, what I believe will happen is that the kids who would benefit the most – those who are usually at the end of the bench and see little playing time – will instead see less playing time at the varsity level. Take away the normal clock stoppages during a game and that time adds up for the ones who could use it most.

We will grant that some coaches love to embarrass a defeated opponent, but if getting blown out in a basketball game is the worst thing that happens to someone in life, he will be doing pretty well.

But most try to keep things from getting completely out of hand by playing many players when a win is assured.

Instead of penalizing kids who have playing time cut, maybe those on the wrong end of a one-sided score should look at themselves and ask how they can get better.
